

ALLIES TO HASTEN AN ARMY EAST

PART OF FRENCH FORCE HAS JOINED SERBIAN ARMY BUT BULGARIAN CONTROL SITUATION AS YET.

GOAL CONSTANTINOPLE

German Troops In Crescent Stronghold Take Place Of Bulgarians In Defending Their Sea Coast.

London, Oct. 26.—The race for the road to Constantinople has reached an exciting stage. The Bulgarians are within a few miles of forming a junction with their Austro-German allies, while the French in small forces already have joined the Serbians.

The French are not yet in sufficient numbers to assume an actual offensive in Macedonia, but the rapidity of the Bulgarian advance in that region already has diminished. Along the old Bulgarian frontier, from a point northeast of Vranja to the Roumanian border, the Serbians are yielding little ground.

Crisis Expected.

Actual junction between the Bulgarians and their allies, which may be a matter of only a few hours, will soon show whether the Serbians are able to hold their mountain positions until the entire allies bring up strong forces.

Italy is still hammering away at the Austrian front, which is shaken but unbroken. It is reported in London that the Italian offensive will at least prevent the Austrians from reinforcing their Balkan army.

Russia, by her stubborn defense of the Caucasus, is keeping her opponents engaged busily along the whole eastern front, in the west there is evidence that the entente allies are preparing for an offensive, which may prevent the Germans from diverting any of their forces there.

May Talk Peace.

A report reached here today that Prince Von Buelow, former German ambassador, will shortly submit to President Wilson and King Alfonso of Spain, an outline of the conditions on which Germany might be disposed to discuss terms of peace.

The report is contained in a Reuter dispatch from Madrid and has been corroborated from another source. The dispatch gives as authority, Prince Camperore, an Italian member of the majority party. The report was first published in Madrid, the correspondent says, in the form of a message from Rome.

Prince Von Buelow was reported as being slightly ill at Cologne. He was bound for Baden-Baden.

Crisis Is Averted.

Athens, Oct. 26.—Another cabinet crisis has been rapidly averted. During debate in the chamber of deputies, a difference of opinion developed between the minister of finance and Venizelos, the former minister and leader of the majority party. The debate was on the subject of Turkish properties in Macedonia, which were confiscated after the Balkan war. Heated remarks were exchanged and the minister of finance made conciliatory explanations which brought about a settlement of the dispute.

German Report.

Berlin, Oct. 26.—German advances on all fronts, are reported in today's official statements. German positions are from 250 to 260 miles in Champagne, north of Le Mesnil, which was captured on Sunday, are said to have been retaken.

Bulgarian Position.

Saloniki, Oct. 26.—Via Paris, Oct. 26.—With the Bulgarian army, the Bulgarians now hold with strong forces, the Nish-Saloniki railroad between Vranja and Uskup, a distance of about fifty miles. They have thus secured direct communication between Nish and Saloniki leaving open only the uncertain means of transit over the Monastir-Prestina lines.

The situation in Serbia is grave, of course, but it is in no wise desperate. The chamber was thrown into confusion and the cabinet dissolved. The cabinet assembled hastily and as a result of its consultation, the minister of finance made conciliatory explanations which brought about a settlement of the dispute.

Turks In Bulgaria.

London, Oct. 26.—The report that Turkish troops are being concentrated at Burzas, Varna and other points on the Black Sea coast of Bulgaria, is reiterated in advices received today from Athens. Reuters' correspondent says that the Turks are to oppose Russian attempts to land troops, having replaced Bulgarians because it was feared the latter could not be counted on to resist the Russian advance.

A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company says:

Five thousand German soldiers from Constantinople are replacing Bulgarian troops on the Black Sea coast. The defense of the coast has been entrusted to Germany.

The Reuter dispatch asserted that the damage inflicted on the Dedeagach by the bombardment of an allied fleet last week was considerable. The extent of the property loss is due largely to fire, which, fanned by a wind, swept through the congested shipping quarter.

At Dardanelles.

Constantinople, via London, Oct. 26.—The following announcement is made by the war office:

"The local reciprocal bombardments are there is nothing in particular to report."

INHERITANCE TAX DECISION IS MADE

State Supreme Court Hands Down Ruling on Hottest Question Today.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Madison, Wis., Oct. 26.—The supreme court handed down a decision today in effect that where the prescribed inheritance tax has been paid on a bequest of an annuity, it must follow that such annuity is exempt under the income tax law.

In another case, the court held that an inheritance of real estate located outside the state is not taxable under income tax law.

The court in an opinion written by Justice R. G. Siebeker, held in the case of the New Dells Lumber Company, that typhoid fever contracted through drinking water furnished by the employer and resulting in death of said employee, is an accident and within the meaning of workmen's compensation act.

This decision is probably the most far reaching of any announced by the court since the compensation act was enacted. Chief Justice Winslow and Justice Barnes dissented.

Repair Vessel "Panther" Leading Ships In War Game Endangered By Fire From Testing Grounds.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, Oct. 26.—The repair ship "Panther" of the United States navy had a narrow escape from being hit by a fourteen-inch shell fired from the proving grounds at Sandy Hook today. The large projectile flew directly over the Panther and struck in the ocean about a mile beyond her.

During his life he gave $5,000 to institutions of the church. Brownsville, Tex., Oct. 26.—Sam Robertson, president of the San Benito and Rio Grande Valley railroad, fought twice with bandits eighteen miles east of San Benito yesterday, the first time alone and the second with the assistance of a fourteen-year-old Mexican boy, who handled the rifles. Robertson reached San Benito at 5:30 this morning with a bullet hole through the shoulder of his coat and with the heel of one shoe shot off. Several weeks ago he was attacked by bandits near San Benito and a hole shot through his hat.

Robertson said that at 3:15 p. m. yesterday he was near San Pedro ranch, east of San Benito, traveling in an automobile with a load of hardware for a hotel, which is being constructed on the Gulf coast. Robertson lost some of the hardware and leaving the automobile near the roadside, started back to find the packages.

Robertson saw one man fall and after he had driven the Mexicans away, found three pools of blood. The wounded men were taken away. Robertson then set out foot through the brush to look for a telephone recently struck on trees in that vicinity. He met a Mexican boy to whom he gave his rifle while he kept his pop gun. Suddenly the boy turned and said, "Look out!" Robertson looked back and saw several Mexicans, how many he could not say. He began firing and with the assistance of the boy, succeeded in getting the best of the situation. The Mexicans again retired. Troops later were sent out to look for them, but they could not be found. Four dead Mexicans were found from another fight, which occurred this morning.

Delegations of British Columbians Secure Data Regarding Wisconsin Law.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Oct. 26.—The Wisconsin industrial commission has just bid adieu to the most painstaking investigating committee that ever stepped across the threshold in the capitol. The committee came from British Columbia and carried away every shred of information about workmen's compensation that was to be found in the Wisconsin commission's office.

The committee is in search of all available data on the subject of workmen's compensation and the prevention of industrial accidents. It not only spent three days looking over the commission's work but visited several manufacturing plants in Milwaukee, Madison and elsewhere to see just how well the Wisconsin system was working.

At Madison the chairman, A. V. Pieng, said that his committee had found that the Wisconsin system of prevention of industrial accidents, on the part of employers, had been found anywhere else. The Canadians' itinerary included Washington, Oregon, Colorado, Ohio, Massachusetts, New York and Wisconsin. The members of the committee are A. P. Pieng, departmental solicitor in the attorney general's office at Victoria; James H. Columbia, vice president of the British Columbia and Wisconsin Labor Union; and E. Albutt, secretary of the union.

The Canadian committee plans to recommend for passage a bill embodying the essential features of the Wisconsin system. SEED CORN SCARCITY

SERIOUS FOR STATE

Farmers Urged to Save Best Ears and

Cure Them Carefully That Work of Years May Not Be Lost.

The seed corn situation in Wisconsin at the present time is exceedingly serious. Unless every effort is made now to save for seed the corn which is sufficiently matured there is grave doubt that much of the years of work in breeding strains adapted to Wisconsin conditions will be undone.

Reports from various sections of the state show that many are of the opinion that there is little or no seed corn which is worth saving for seed.

It is very important, as indicated by some wonderfully productive early ripening strains which have been developed in Wisconsin would be lost and that growers of the state would have to begin again where they did thirteen or fourteen years ago.

By the aid of the Agricultural Experiment Station, growers in various sections of the state have acclimated to their districts and to their various types of soil, varieties which produce better and ripen better in the state have been secured than any other strain which could be obtained. A summer of unprecedented weather, with an unusual amount of rainfall and abnormal temperatures, has made it necessary to especially adapted varieties from maturing as in former years.

Happily, however, according to agriculturists at the College of Agriculture, sufficient quantities of various varieties has matured and with some extra effort may be gathered, cured, and stored ready for next spring's planting.

They are now advising farmers who have corn which has reached the denting or the latter part of the dough stage to select either from shock or standing corn the ears which are fully developed and which are well filled.

It is very important, as indicated by a series of experiments conducted a few years ago by Commissioner of Agriculture C. P. Norford, that seed ears be selected as early as possible and thoroughly dried immediately after being husked. Selected ears may be dried temporarily in well ventilated sheds where the ears are hung separately and are protected from frost.

A much better way, the station agriculturists say, is to hang the ears, properly separated, in a regular seed drying machine provided with good ventilation and some artificial heat.

"The importance of separating each ear from its neighbor and keeping them properly ventilated cannot be emphasized too strongly and if in addition, artificial heat can be provided the most perfect conditions are supplied. Hanging seed corn around the kitchen stove where, but a small amount is to be cured is probably as good a method as any."

Farmers who have supplies of corn sufficiently matured for seed will find it highly profitable to cure well their best seed corn. Prices are sure to be high next spring."

LIFE'S EDITORIAL.

Edward Sanford Martin, in "Life," has produced a masterpiece in literature and logic directed at Henry Ford, the millionaire automobile manufacturer, who dares to make statements relative to the war which, because of his wealth and position, few dare to contradict. However, Mr. Martin handles this genial gentleman in a manner that is well worth considering, and quoting his editorial, he says:

"Henry Ford says he has $10,000,000 to spend if necessary to persuade this country that peace is always the best plan. . . . He thinks people have a false idea of war that ought to be educated out of them. He imagines that they are fooled by the glory and glamour of it. . . . He wants the people to be persuaded that preparedness for war creates war."

"Henry does not seem to realize that several times $10,000,000 is being spent every day, and has been spent every day for fourteen months, to persuade mankind that peace is the best plan and that excess in preparation for war is about as dangerous as no preparation at all. Our newspapers and movie shows are telling the truth about war nowadays in so far as they can get it. They represent it as a terrible job. The glory and the glamour of it go for nothing. It is all tragedy, the purge of the passions; tragedy, destruction, and waste. Henry's ten millions would be a mere scratch on the slate compared with the daily picture of war that we have been getting this last year."

"Have patience, Henry. This is a war against war. Folks who survive it are going to be gun shy for some time. You have done a great deal to make life attractive. That is your great service to peace, because the pleasant life is the less people want to die. But war, Henry, brings a much greater lesson than that—the lesson of self-sacrifice. Nobody is much good who has no idea of a noble idea, some ideal, that he cares more for than he does for life, even though it is life alleviated by the Ford motor. You help to make life pleasant, but war, Henry, helps to make it noble, and if it is not noble it does not mature a damn, Henry, whether it is pleasant or not. That is the old lesson of Calvary repeated at Mons and Ypres and Liege and Namur. Whether there are more people in the world or less, whether they are fat or lean, whether there are Fords or oxen, makes no vital difference, but whether men shall be willing to die for what they believe in makes all the difference between a pigsty and Paradise. Not by bread alone, Henry, shall men live."

"As for military preparedness, enough is good and salutary; too much is militarism, and that is bad, bad, bad, as the Germans are teaching us. They are the great teachers of peace, and, be sure, Henry, they shall learn that lesson themselves down to the last line. Leave peace propaganda to them; but you, if you have ten millions to spare, put it into Ford ambulances for France."

FREE PUBLICITY

There is hardly a day that the average newspaper morning mail is not deluged with cleverly worded semi-news announcements, which really contain a salient advertising feature, which the writer desires published as a news item. They range from the danger of liquid fly poison to the gigantic beams that go into big buildings, but all have the same end in view—free publicity. Nor are the requests for free publicity confined to the mails alone. Numerous calls, by telephone and otherwise, by person and messenger, are received daily in the news room seeking to gain the only commodity a newspaper has to sell—its space—free of charge, for this reason or that. Recently the various churches of the city held special services on the Sabbath evening. All were given due prominence as of public interest, and while they were not all placed upon one page or in the most important part of the paper, they were given the best of space.

Property-owners getting tired of raking their leaves up into neat piles and then watching the wind blow them all around again, are burning them on the streets despite the request of the city officials not to do so.

Proof that next year's baseball season is going to be successful is the statement that this year's crop of peanuts is a bumper one. Perhaps this will also affect the circuses as well and cause the elephants and monkeys to rejoice.

Perhaps to understand the position of King Constantine of Greece, one must realize that he has a wife at home whose tears are worth more to him than the promise of Cyprus by the English. This being a brother-in-law to an emperor is not all it is cracked up to be.

Belgium still struggles on to maintain its dignity of an independent kingdom, with but a few feet of soil for its gallant troops and king to stand on. Perhaps when the war is over and its history written this little band of patriots will be given the credit they deserve.

sold for ten times what it is, if there was no advertising. The advertising depends upon the circulation, the circulation upon the news, and if too much space is given up to free publicity there will be less news, fewer readers and consequently down the line. There is such a thing as running a gift horse to death and the newspapers are feeling the strain of this test as the days go on and prices for material advance. If you have something to sell and it is worth a free notice, it surely is worth paying for to announce it. Think it over.

TARGETS OF CRITICISM.

No matter how mental a position they hold, how hard they work, how diligent they are in upholding the law, a public official, be he city, county, state or national, is bound to be the subject of criticism, some of it deserved, but the greater part unjust. There is a certain amount of red tape about all official work. Certain reports that must show the why and wherefore of the uninitiated, who would cut the red tape with one snip of the scissors fails to realize what would be the consequences if this procedure was prevalent in all official acts. The officials who come into close touch with the general public are the ones who are most affected by these criticisms. They must bear the brunt of a considerable amount of absolute abuse if they follow out the law as prescribed. We have examples of this in our own civic life. We have had aldermen in days past, who labored earnestly and hard for the public welfare who were subject to all sorts of abuse from almost every quarter. We have had a city commission which has been accused of almost every crime under the sun and have had disappointed office-seekers and ward heelers. We have had county officials who have trod on the toes of persons who sought to do something without the sanction of the law and been caught in the act and retaliated by underhand methods of systematically undermining the acts of the official who only did his duty. So it goes in our home affairs and in national affairs it is the same. Disgraced politicians seek any excuse to accuse the persons successful in securing a coveted position or appointment, with all sorts of misdeeds and even taking their complaints to the powers that be above in the hope of revenge. Sometimes they have been successful, and will have to remain in the running until the finish comes. Meanwhile Constantinople is not yet captured and Paris still floats the tricolor.

Unfortunately for them, European nations that have backed the wrong combination can not hedge their bets and will have to remain in the running until the finish comes. Meanwhile Constantinople is not yet captured and Paris still floats the tricolor.

News from the seat of war becomes more and more like a surgical clinic as the days go by and reports continue to come in from the firing line. It is a great opportunity for experimenting on live subjects, but even the most enthusiastic surgeon is becoming tired of the practice.

Perhaps to understand the position of King Constantine of Greece, one must realize that he has a wife at home whose tears are worth more to him than the promise of Cyprus by the English. This being a brother-in-law to an emperor is not all it is cracked up to be.

Belgium still struggles on to maintain its dignity of an independent kingdom, with but a few feet of soil for its gallant troops and king to stand on. Perhaps when the war is over and its history written this little band of patriots will be given the credit they deserve.

The Master Stroke.
After the third injection of iced tea, the great detective turned to his fair visitor and said, "You say your husband used to be a baseball umpire and all you know of his whereabouts or other belongings is that he is employed as a waiter at one of the city restaurants?"

"Excuse me," replied his visitor with a slight foreign accent. "I will find him for you, but it may take all day," said the great detective. And going to the telephone he called up the proprietor of every restaurant in the city and extracted from each a promise not to allow any flapjacks to be made that day.

"Now come with me," said the great detective, and they began a tour of the city's 215 restaurants. Not until the 115th did the great detective's genius find its reward.

DRAMA CLUB HOLDS MEETING ON MONDAY

Excellent Program is Given at First Meeting Held at City Hall Last Evening.

Members of the Janesville Dramatic club held their first meeting in the old council chambers at the city hall last evening and prospects for a successful year's work were much in evidence. Since the club's organization two years ago, success has resulted in every effort and within a few weeks it is fully expected that the spirit and enthusiasm which marked the initial endeavors will be even increased.

Last evening an excellent program was given and the program announced for the next meeting, October 31st. Recently members of the club went to Beloit to hear the lecture of Granville Barker and the subject of last evening's program was largely centered around this famous dramatist. Miss Greenman had a well given and instructive paper on his life. Mrs. J. B. Day spoke in appreciative terms of the lecture given by Barker on "The New Art of the Theatre" on last Wednesday. Plays that were written and produced by Granville Barker formed the subject of the address of Miss Town.

Miss Mary Stevens gave a synopsis and review of "The Birth of a Nation," the moving picture spectacle which was of added interest owing to the protest against the picture being exhibited in this city.

The program as announced for the next meeting, on Monday, Oct. 31st, is as follows: "An Evening With J. M. Barrie," "Barrie As an Author and Dramatist," Miss Julia Enright, Reading by selected cast. Barrie's best short play: "The Will."

THE GREATEST BOOK OF THE AGE

No Book Like "Heart Throbs" Has Ever Appeared Before.

In response to an offer of $10,000 in awards, more than 50,000 of what Lincoln called the "plain people of America," sent to the publishers selections of poems, stories and anecdotes that had comforted them in affliction, cheered them in adversity, and inspired them with new courage. From this vast number of contributors United States Senator Allison and Admiral Dewey chose 840 whose selections they deemed the most worthy, and the contributions that appear in "Heart Throbs" are from these 840 successful contestants. Here are hundreds of gems of literature that are near and dear to the hearts of the people. Many cannot be found elsewhere today, even in the large metropolitan libraries, and this is one of the unique features of the two volumes, which are on display at this office, and the coupon for which is printed elsewhere in today's paper.

What kind of navel vessel? AUSTRALIAN FIRST WAR BOND ISSUE IS SUCCESS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Melbourne, Australia, Oct. 26.—Much to the gratification of the Australian Government, the first issue of the Commonwealth War Loan of $100,000,000, consisting of $25,000,000, applications for which expired on Aug. 31, was largely oversubscribed. Upon September 3, in the House of Representatives, amid cheers from the members, the Prime Minister, Andrew Fisher, read a letter from the governor of the Commonwealth Bank in which the latter announced that the number of applications received for the issue was nearly 17,000 and the total amount applied for was just short of $65,000,000.

"It is evident," Mr. Fisher said, addressing the House, that the amount subscribed will be substantially over thirteen millions, which is practically two-thirds of the total amount of the loan.

The Commonwealth Bank and various private banks were large subscribers to the issue; also two insurance companies, the Colonial Sugar Refining Co. (the so-called "sugar trust" of Australia); the Broken Hill Proprietary Co. (the owner of the extensive silver, zinc and lead mines at Broken Hill and the steel plant at Newcastle); and Sir Samuel McCaughey (the Australian "sheep king").

The terms of the loan, which is to be spread over the year in installments to cause the least disturbance to the Australian money market, are considered very favorable and as enhancing its popularity—interest payable at 4 1/2 per cent and a par issue; stock to be inscribed or bonds as low as $50 to be issued payable to bearer at the option of the leader; interest to be free of Commonwealth and state income taxes; the documents to be free of Commonwealth and state stamp duties.

Mr. Smith—He cured my husband's rheumatism so he can never tell when it is going to rain and last week I spoiled my new hat.

Ink Eradicator.
A very good way to remove ink stains from cloth is to wash them with boiled rice. Rub the rice on the stains, as you may soap, and wash with clear water. If the first application does not complete the cure repeat the process. It usually works like magic, even if stains are perfectly dry.

AT MYERS THEATRE.

A Thousand Interests in "The Birth of a Nation."
One is actually witnessing in a single night the condensed action of a lifetime in the annals of our nation in David W. Griffith's "The Birth of a Nation," that mighty spectacle which is now running in New York City and Chicago, and which will be played here at the Myers the week of October 31st.

War, romance and sociology play immense parts—but the entire gamutlet of human emotions is played upon as never were they played upon before, and as it is doubtful if they ever will be again.

Old soldiers have wept at sight of this realistic reproduction and delegates from the National Soldiers' Home are present in every performance in every city where it is being run.

AT MYERS THEATRE.

No song of modern times ever awayed an audience as Mr. Jose's singing of "Silver Threads Among the Gold," and what more fitting tribute to this popular actor and sweet singer could the K. & R. Film company offer to this great artist than to embody the song into photoplay form with Dick Jose as the central figure. Those who have seen the big six-part production assert that it will sweep the country as the song has done and will live forever. The K. & R. company have surrounded Mr. Jose with a star cast of Rome, with the moon setting behind the dome of St. Peter's.

The film version has more of the thrills of the original and the dramatic action is spun deftly and quickly. Miss Frederick, as Donna Roma, is excellent in her portrayal, while her beauty charms the eye.

AT THE APOLLO.

"David Harum" Tonight with William H. Crane.

In "David Harum," which returns to the Apollo tonight, William H. Crane gives one of the most famous and quaintest characterizations ever contributed to the American stage. Mr. Crane created the role on the stage years ago and when the Famous Players decided to picture it, they naturally turned to the original star and secured him at a big price.

"David Harum" is so familiar to everyone who reads at all that little need be said, but for all evening of all around entertainment, this play is supreme. It is brimful of good American humor.

AT THE PRINCESS.

Lovers of Mary Fuller, and they number millions, will see that many-sided and most charming actress in an entirely new character as Mary Martel, in the strong play, "The Woman Who Lied," which will be shown at the Princess tomorrow Wednesday. As an actress with more self-indulgence than character, Miss Fuller gives a portrayal that will astound those who hitherto have seen her only in "sweet" parts. Her strength in the big emotional scenes with which the play abounds mark her work as far beyond the ordinary. To shield a lover from serious work. This is a play that will delight all who care for a meaty plot with strong emotional acting, and it will go big any and everywhere.

AT MYERS THEATRE.

Francis X. Bushman, recently honored at the Panama-Pacific exposition at San Francisco by the directors of the Fair in setting aside July 15 as "Bushman Day," is now to be seen in his first picture produced by the Quality Pictures Corporation. The feature is entitled "The Second in Command," the scenes of which are laid in England and in Africa. Marguerite Snow is Mr. Bushman's co-star and the sympathetic role of the girl with whom he is in love. "The Second in Command" will be found on view at the Myers theatre on Oct. 28-29, which will be its initial presentation in this city.

AT THE MAJESTIC.

"The Juggernaut" Coming Thursday.

An express train with its passengers, a high-powered automobile, a speedy motor boat, and a broken bridge—these are the main actors at the climax of this most gripping of dramas. "The Juggernaut." Will automobile, or boat, or both, be in its appointed doom? The answer comes as the train plunges to ghastly ruin in the sombre waters below, and you, who see it, experience the thrill of your lifetime.

But this is only a part of the picture. Beautiful Anita Stewart plays the leading role, and when Anita smiles, you can't remember any worries or troubles—you just can't help smiling with her. Earle Williams and William Dunn play the parts of the two college friends who follow such different paths later in life, and who, at the climax, make this terrific race for the treacherous trestle.

See this picture. It will be an event you will long remember. It comes to the Majestic for two days, Thursday and Friday of this week.

Fannie Ward Seen in "The Marriage of Kitty" at the Apollo.

"The Marriage of Kitty" proves that a comedy does not have to be "slapstick" to "get over." At least the Apollo audiences yesterday enjoyed, it immensely. It is a light, breezy comedy, and it blows along as easily as a summer wind. Nobody seemed to be struggling to wing a laugh, yet from every movement of almost everybody little chuckles spring out irresistibly.

Fannie Ward, as is becoming to an important and well known person, is featured, and she does feature work, even though it was her first screen essay. The others in the cast do equally as good, as is befitting a Lasky cast and a Lasky production.

MILWAUKEE SUFFERER TRIED JUST ONE DOSE

Ben Behling Gave Up Hope Before He Found Remedy—Happy Now.

Ben F. Behling of 959 Louis avenue, Milwaukee, was a sufferer from malady of the stomach and digestive tract for a long time. He gave up hope.

At last he discovered Mayr's Wonderful Remedy. He took a dose just to try it. The results were remarkable. He wrote:

"I was in such bad condition that I had given up hope of ever getting well again. I sent to you for one dose of your remedy and took it the same day you sent it. It has worked wonderfully. I took five more bottles, one each week. I am now a new man again. I thank you a thousand times for the good you did me."

Mayr's Wonderful Remedy gives permanent results for stomach, liver and intestinal ailments. It is as much and whatever you like. No more distress after eating, pressure of gas in the stomach and around the heart. Get one bottle of your druggist now and try it on an absolute guarantee. If not satisfactory money will be returned.

An Old, Family Cough Remedy, Home-Made

Easily Prepared—Costs Very Little, but is Prompt, Sure and Effective

By making this pint of old-time cough syrup at home you not only save about $2, as compared with the ready-made kind, but you will also have a much more prompt and positive remedy in every way. It overcomes the usual coughs, throat and chest colds in 24 hours—relieves whooping cough quickly—and is excellent, too, for bronchitis, bronchial asthma, hoarseness and spasmodic croup.

Get from any drug store 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth), pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Full directions with Pinex. Keeps perfectly and tastes good.

You can feel this take hold of a cough or cold in a way that means business. It quickly loosens the dry, hoarse or painful cough and heals the inflamed membranes. CHAPTER XXV.

Out there the moon was setting. Soon, thank God, it would be dark everywhere. The man she loved needed all the chance that the thickening gloom could give him. It was terribly quiet now, except for an occasional whippoorwill call and the quietness seemed to lie upon her with the oppression of something unspeakably terrifying. The breath of hillside and sky was bated.

At last there came to her ears the sound of heavy feet crashing through the brush, but he had been gone ten minutes then. Perhaps they had just awakened to his escape and were casting aside stealth for the fury of open pursuit. She even thought she heard an oath once, and then it was all quiet again; quiet for a while, and at the bim in stupefaction.

He had gone out a splendid vital creature of resilient strength and power. He had come back the torn and bleeding wreck of a man, literally shot to pieces, as a quail is shattered when it rises close to a quick-shooting gun.

In the next moment she was stooping with her arms around his body, striving to lift his weight and bring him in. She was strong beyond all seeming of her slenderness, but the man was heavy, and as she raised his head and shoulders a sound of bitterness and stifled agony escaped his white lips, and she knew that her efforts were torturing him.

It was an almost lifeless tongue that whispered, "I was skinned—that I wouldn't get here."

Then as she staggered under his inert bulk he tried to speak again. "Just help—drag me."

The few yards into the hall made a long and terrible journey, and how she ever got him in, half hanging to her, half crawling, stopping at every step, she never knew. Still it was done at last, and she was kneeling on the floor with his head on her breast.

No wonder they had left him for dead and gone away content. He looked up and a faint smile came to his almost unrecognizable face. The blood which had already dried and caked with the dust through which he had crawled was being fed by a fresh outpouring, and, as she held him close to her, her own bosom and arms were red too, as red as the flower pinned in her hair.

She must stanch his wounds and pour whiskey down his throat before the flickering wisp of life flame burned out.

"Wait, dearest," she said in a broken voice. "I must get things you need."

"It ain't"—he paused a moment for the breath which came very hard—"scarcely—worth while—I'm done."

But she flew to the cupboard where there was brandy. She tore linen from her petticoat and brought water from the drinking bucket that stood with its gourd dipper on the porch.

But when she pressed the flask to his lips he closed them and shook his head a little.

"I ain't never touched a drop in my life," he said, "an' I reckon—I might's well—finish out—won't be long. It's too late to begin now."

For a while he lay gasping, then spoke again, weakly.

"Just kiss me—dearest—that's what I come for."

After a pause he spoke again.

"There's one thing—I've got to ask ye: Why did ye swear—ye didn't care for me—in court?"

Her head came up and she answered steadily:

"Dearest, I've never asked myself that question until the lawyer asked it. I didn't know the answer myself, but if I did love you, I meant to tell you first; it was our business, not his. I was there to help you, and I wouldn't have helped you to tell them that I was fighting for my own heart. And, besides, I didn't know then, quite."

She went on bathing and stanching his wounds as best she could, but a spirit of despair settled on her. There were so many of them, and they were so deep and ragged!

"I didn't—come for help," he told her, and through the grime and blood flashed a ghost of his rare and boyish smile. "I'm past mendin' now. I came because—I'm dyin'—an' I wanted to die in your arms!"

"You shan't die," she breathed fiercely between her teeth. "My arms shall always be around you."

But he shook his head and his figure sagged a little against her knees.

"I know—when I'm done," he said slowly. "It's all right now—I've got got here. That's enough—I loves ye."

For a time she wondered whether he had lost consciousness, and she laid him down slowly and brought cushions with which to soften his position. It was almost daybreak now.

She sat there beside him, and as her heart beat close to him he seemed to draw from it some of its abundant vitality, for he revived a little, and though his eyes were closed and she had to bend down to catch his words, his voice grew somewhat stronger.

"I ain't never felt lonesome—before. But out there—dyin' by myself—the last of my family—I had to come. Dyin' ain't like livin'—I couldn't die without ye."

"You aren't dying," she argued desperately. "You shan't die."

"Yes," he said, "I'm dyin'—an' now the sooner—the better—I reckon."

She bent lower and held him very gently, close to her heart. "You are suffering horribly, dearest," she groaned.

"It ain't that—His breath came with great difficulty. 'They'll come back here. They'll get me yet—an' I'd rather die first.'"

REMEDY IS SOUGHT TO PREVENT LOSS IN MAJOR LEAGUES

od,Nare—S. o qoy wok wow wowiww
Very Few Teams in American or National Have Met With Financial Success This Year.

(By George R. Holmes.)
New York, Oct. 26.—When the Braves and Athletics rang down the curtain on the 1914 season baseball magnates sent a booming sigh heavenward and privately expressed the opinion that the old game had gone through about as lean a year financially as was possible and to still be kicking.

And now that the Phils and Red Sox have pushed another season over the brink into history, that same sigh, seemingly louder and more penetrating, is again mounting skyward through the haze of those October days. It was another lean year in baseball—very lean in spots.

Of the sixteen clubs in the American and National circuits which started in the annual derby last April it is doubtful if more than half a dozen can show a balance on the right side of the ledger today. Magnates, of course, are touchy on such subjects and actual figures are not obtainable, all of which, however, doesn't alter the fact that they didn't spend any money for all the talk of big payoffs.

A close race saved the National league from probably the worst season in its history. Never in history were eight clubs in the race after July as they were this year. Yet, notwithstanding all this, four of the clubs—Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Los Angeles and Chicago—lost money if the truth were known.

Profits Thin.
The Braves pulled through mainly because of their championship, and because of the possibility of their starting another famous sport. The Giants always have a certain prestige on the road, and this, with the huge rental exacted from the Yanks for the Polo grounds, enabled them to pull through by a narrow margin. The Phils as champions made money, of course, and the Dodgers with a multitude of minor league players got by. Charley Ebbets and W. P. Baker are reported to have made neat sums because their salary lists are the lowest in the league.

The profits of the Braves and Giants were extremely thin. McGraw, with a heavy salary list which he couldn't get rid of because of long term contracts, skated on the ice towards the latter part of the season, and the huge cost of the new Braves' field held Gaffney's take-off down to a minimum.

It is extremely considered, however, more than two clubs in the American league made money.

Boston's pennant winners made a neat sum, as did the Tigers because they were batting the Red Sox right down the home stretch.

Cost of Players.
On the straight playing season probably Charley Comiskey made money, but his huge expenditures for Eddie Collins, Eddie Murphy, Joe Jackson, Nemo Liebold and a galaxy of minor league players cut in heavily on his profits. Everything considered, he probably broke even; certainly not more.

In Cleveland, Charley Somers had to elphanto on the Indians and his American association club, neither of which made money. The Indians never were in the pennant hunt, and what popularity they had skated to Chicago when the Jackson. Minor league ball cannot be expected to make money where major league fails.

In Philadelphia, Connie Mack lost money last season with a pennant winner. This year he had a tail-end. That in itself should tell Philadelphia's story. Mack, however, probably didn't fare any worse than last season because he realized the multitude of good hard cash when he sold Collins, Barry, Murphy and Combs. Connie had a mighty slim pay roll this season.

Yankos Losers.
The Yanks didn't make any money. They, too, had a bunch of long term contracts, which, with the big rent of the Polo grounds and a young fortune spent for alleged minor league phenoms, put them on the wrong side of the books.

Washington never has been a gold mine. Griffith has probably the best city in the country to work, and Walter Johnson's salary cuts no little figure in his receipts. The Senators were fighting in the first division all season, though, and the owners probably got an even break.

The St. Louis Browns never were money makers, and this season has proved no exception.

Something has to crack under the strain before long. Baseball men say it's going to be high salaries, which probably isn't far from the truth.

SOLON WILL NOW PLAY FOR MONEY INSTEAD OF VARSITY FAME
(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 26.—Lorin Solon, whose sudden dismissal from the Gophers' football team astonished university circles, will become a professional football player next Sunday. He has agreed to play four games with the Duluth Athletic club, he said on Monday, and is to receive $100 and expenses for each game. The team plays against Superior, Wis., next Sunday.

MAY HIRE FREIGHT FOR CHICAGO GAME

Wisconsin Students Anxious to Secure Cheap Transportation. May Charter Freight Train.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Madison, Wis., Oct. 26.—The shipment of students as freight is a question which is puzzling the officials of the St. Paul road for settlement. For some time there has been a movement among students to secure a freight train to take them to the Chicago game. By this method the students would be taken to and from Chicago at a cost of about $2 each. But the officials of the St. Paul line are experiencing some difficulty in properly classifying students as animals, apparently this idea was one of the things that the men who made the western classification overlooked.

In a letter to W. J. Blaggs, postal freight officials, the students point out that the practice is used by the students of Michigan, Pennsylvania and several other institutions. If the officials agree to allow the students to charter a freight train, it will leave Madison next Saturday morning at 6 o'clock and is expected to arrive in Chicago about 10 o'clock. It will return to Madison on Sunday morning.

JOE MANDOT BATTLES TED LEWIS IN BOSTON; RITCHIE BOXES DUNDEE

Boston, Oct. 26.—Boxing fans are anticipating a last battle when Ted Lewis, the clever English boxer, and Joe Mandot, the southern champion, clash twelve rounds to a decision tonight. Lewis won fame in America by defeating Jack Britton in two bouts to a decision in Boston. Mandot is rated as one of the best American lightweights, having speed and a hard punch. Lewis, as with all English boxers, is exceptionally clever, but lacks a punch. The two boxers will go twelve rounds to a decision.

Dundee vs. Ritchie.
New York, Oct. 26.—Wednesday night Ritchie, the American lightweight champion, will face Johnny Dundee, the hard-hitting New York favorite, in a ten round no-decision bout. Ritchie must defend his American honors against Dundee.

Before Ty Cobb goes into winter quarters he is sure to have picked up about $2,000 above his salary. Since the American league season closed, Tyus has been decidedly busy. It is said that the "Georgia Peach" received $500 for his world series articles. The other day he pulled down $350 for an exhibition game in a small town in Ohio. He jumped to Montreal the Sunday during the world series and picked up $150, working on a percentage basis. He has not yet returned to his home in Georgia, figuring that there are more easy spots for him to get the coin.

PETE RUSSELL IS HOPE OF MAROONS

Pete Russell.

Pete Russell leads this year's University of Chicago eleven and the brunt of the work is falling on his shoulders. The Maroon leader is doing everything in his power to bring about a successful season, but will need assistance if victories are achieved over such strong teams as Illinois and Minnesota.

MORRIS MILLER

Though there has been some criticism of Sam Crawford's playing during the past season, the report that he will be probably is not based on facts. Crawford still is one of the best hitters in the game, and the most popular of the Tigers in Detroit. He has an ideal disposition and has been in the game for ten years for so many years that he is idolized there and the club would not think of letting him go to some other club. Crawford, in fact, would not tolerate being added to the list of players who have been of a saving disposition, and is well supplied with this world's goods. He is one of the few players who can retire and live easy for the rest of his days.

Ty Cobb did not lead in everything the past season. In one respect Ed Collins of the White Sox beat him. It being in the matter of receiving bases on balls. Cobb finished the recent season with 118 passes, which, of course, was a remarkable showing, but Collins won him a better having a record of 120 walks during the season. Bush of the Tigers and Shotton of the Browns both got 116 hits to first. This is the American league record. Cobb was the first time that four players worked pitchers in this league for over a hundred walks to first. Moeller led the Nationals in walks with fifty-seven.

Spring training trips are to be materially shortened by the major league clubs next spring. The National league teams were not allowed to report at their training camps until March 1 and this rule will not be abrogated. It is the general belief that the American league will adopt similar legislation for the annual meeting next month, and that the change will meet with general favor. The magnates are tired of exhibition games in small cities where they are paid at a loss. They seem to favor four weeks of hard work at the camps to be followed by a bee line trip back to their own grounds. Expenses must be cut.

Barney Dreyfuss of the Pittsburgh club expects to make a lot of changes in his team before the next season opens. The National league managers during the recent world series, and he is convinced that he will be able to make some advantageous trades this winter. "I have received an announcement or two forthcoming in the near future," said the Pittsburgh magnate. "It may be that the negotiations will not be completed before the National league meeting in December or not until that meeting is in progress. There is a chance though that the news will break before that time."

Walter Camp, the noted Yale football man, is now advocating a national commission of prominent sportsmen to provide and direct sports for the youth of the country who do not have the advantage of college or school athletics. This is a worthy aim, and it is to be noted that it can be carried to fruition. The sport of football will surely be benefited greatly if such a move is made, as aside from the schools and colleges, football has made anything like progress among the youth of the country that baseball has. The real reason is that it has not been properly directed. Undoubtedly, the commission, such as suggested by Walter Camp, if it is composed of the right type of men, could work a great benefit both to the youth and sport itself.

The big game of the rugby football season on the Pacific coast will be between Leland Stanford and Santa Clara universities at San Francisco on Saturday, Nov. 13.

One of the big southern universities tried to play Milton Ghee, the former quarterback of the Carroll college football team. This is a question Carroll students are asking themselves. The best explanation yet given is that Porlier was suddenly called to Calumet, Mich., after the forfeit game with Marquette last Saturday.

It is said that Porlier stated his father was ill and that he had to go home to look after his business. Porlier has it that Porlier went to Dubuque, Ia., to enter another school. Porlier was captain of the Carroll team, a great all around athlete, and the mainstay of the Carroll eleven. Very little interest was shown on Monday in practice, only two regulars being on the field.

It is reported that Johns, right tackle of the team, has left school. No reason has been assigned for him leaving the team and the faculty don't care to make any statement.

Edgerton News

Edgerton, Oct. 26.—At a regular meeting of Edgerton Lodge, Knights of Pythias, held at their hall last evening, the rank of Knight was conferred on Fred Smith. Plans were formulated at that time for an elaborate wild game supper which will be served to the Knights next Monday evening. The mighty nincoms, William Leroy Bolton and Arwood Ebenezer Stewart are the committee in charge of the feast. The Knights hope that for once at least Game Warden Mason will close his eyes to the activities of the above mentioned sportsmen, and thus preclude the necessity of their having to procure the menu by right of purchase.

G. Lutz, formerly cashier in the freight office of the C. & N. St. P. railway at Beloit, has taken the position as local station agent to succeed John Henderson. Mr. Henderson, who retired from the services of the railroad company, is one of the oldest employees on this division, having been in the employ of the Milwaukee road for nearly forty years, and having been more than a quarter of a century. His many friends regret to see him retire from active participation in the affairs of the local office.

The local high school football team is receiving the hardest training of the season in preparation for the all important game with Stoughton, which will be played Saturday. The Stoughton team will come on a special train accompanied by a band and several hundred rooters. Although Coach Sam Anderson of Stoughton has handled the local team all season, there are several pretty plays which Mr. Anderson will see for the first time next Saturday. In spite of the quick-setback received by the local team last week, the consistent manner in which they ripped the Ft. Atkinson line to pieces leads the local fans to believe that the Stoughton Huskies will have more than a hard and fast regular meeting of the New Century club was held at the home of Mrs. G. W. Atwell, on Monday evening. The topic for the evening's study was "Motion pictures, their influence on the child." Mrs. Alfred Anderson was the leader and after tracing the development of the moving picture machine, its present state and the influence of these improvements for which Mr. Edison is now working, she presented facts to show the vast influence which the motion pictures are exerting upon the children and their influence upon the children who attend their presentation in such numbers.

Attention was called to the great need for better films for children. To quote Mrs. Anderson, "A special children's matinee ought to be arranged and every mother ought to see that her children attend only such plays as are fitted for children. The women's and men's clubs ought to co-operate with the manager of our local theatre and help boost for better films and every intelligent person in the movement of Edgerton, mentally and morally, ought to give such a movement his support."

Following a brief survey of the historical details which entered into the construction of the photo-play, "The Birth of a Nation," there was a very interesting discussion concerning the nature of the influence which it will exert.

Both parties are well known here, having spent their lives in and near this city. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Larkin on Walworth avenue. The groom is a partner in the Cummings and Hickory furniture and undertaking establishment and is well liked. The young couple left for a short wedding trip, after which they will make their home in the Weisbach house on State street.

The largest auction sale ever held in this part of the state was held yesterday at the Hanson-Hawes stock farm, a mile north of the city. Two hundred and thirty head of cattle, and the ten acre pasture in front of the house was filled with autos. It looked a great deal like a county fair, everyone going past. Two auctioneers were busy all day, from 10 o'clock in the morning. Over 150 head of cattle were sold, besides a large amount of machinery, the sale bringing in $2,000. A free lunch was given and it taxed the capacity of the house to feed 1,100 people. Many came to town and the hotels and restaurants did a good business. Messrs. Hanson and Hawes leave the farm November 1st and will live in this city.

RUSHING WORK ON DAM AT CHIPPEWA FALLS
Chippewa Falls, Wis., Oct. 26.—Work is being rushed on the new $2,000,000 dam which is being constructed by the Wisconsin-Michigan Light and Power company on the Chippewa river, two miles east of this city, so as to get as much done as possible before winter sets in.

The company now has 500 men at work and nearly 1,000 will be used on the dam as soon as the railroad facilities are improved so that supplies may be brought in rapidly. A great many contractors' stores have been erected on the grounds by twenty-three Chippewa merchants to sell supplies to the men employed on the work.

It is expected that the project will be completed in two years. The hydro-electric power to be generated will be sent over a high power transmission line 10 miles long to St. Paul and will cost $25,000. The buildings will be completed by next spring.

A new passenger depot is also being erected by Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha railroad which will cost $25,000. The buildings will be completed by next spring.

"Do you like Tyler?" asked John Sumner as Julia Osgood returned from taking a dictation.

"Is that the new cashier's name?" she asked, looking at him.

"Why? She seems to be a very nice girl," he said.

"I have an uncanny dislike for her," he said.

"You work your imagination over time," I am beginning to believe you imagine half the exasperation you attribute to your creditors."

"John grinned. "Read that!" he exclaimed, passing a letter across the table. Julia read:

"Mr. John Sumner, Fairport, Kas. Dear Sir:

"I regret that it is necessary for me to write about the little matter of fifty dollars still due me on account of the amount I shall be obliged to proceed to collect by law."

"Hoping that all unpleasantness may be avoided by an early settlement, I am very truly yours,

"G. E. BARTSTOW."

"Well, they can't draw blood out of a turnip," remarked Julia, staring at the letter.

"No, but they can crush the turnip. I think Jaynes is the kind of a man to give a man his walking papers if he had to have his wages garnished."

"To lose my job just now would be the finishing blow. As it was twelve o'clock he stuffed the letter in his pocket and rose to go."

"There isn't any one you can borrow from to tide you over?" asked Julia.

"Not a soul. I am as much alone financially as if Bartstow and I were alone in the world. There is absolutely no place to turn."

"Julia put on her hat and they silently walked down the steps together."

"Good-bye," she said, as he tipped his hat at the corner where they separated.

HEALTH TALKS

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Bad Breath.

A coated tongue is the commonest cause of bad breath. Especially the coating upon the back part of the tongue, which is noticeable in so many people who consider themselves perfectly well. Chronically diseased tonsils and a decayed tooth or two may be the cause of this condition. At any rate, the condition is often improved by scraping off the coating as far back as possible by means of the handle of a shears or some similar blunt instrument.

Chronic nasal catarrh is a factor in a large number of cases. Simple home treatment, both local and general, improves matters considerably. We will be glad to send a letter of suggestions about catarrh to anyone who will send a stamped, addressed envelope with a request.

Digestive disturbances often cause a foul breath. Intemperance, especially in alcoholic beverages or just plain food, causes bad breath by enfeebling the portal circulation. The portal circulation is the great drainage system of the alimentary canal.

which conveys the blood through the veins into the liver. Now the veins draining the esophagus, throat, base of tongue and nasal passages, communicate directly with the portal veins. Hence anything which engorges the portal area, such as alcoholic indulgence or over-eating, causes also more or less engorgement of the throat and nose. This interferes with the free function of the mucous membrane, making the mucous glands torpid and inactive, the retention of excretory material producing an odor.

Hence diet, temperance, exercise, free water drinking and general measures directed toward the portal circulation will correct the bad breath.

Occasional salivary catarrhs, by means of epimucous or any other saline proffered, may be useful.

Adenoids in young people and sometimes in adults, are a frequent cause of foul breath.

Arterio-sclerosis, chronic low grade Bright's disease, organic diseases of the liver itself, organic stomach disease and chronic bronchitis may cause bad taste in the mouth very early in its course and a bad breath as well.

As for mouth washes, in the absence of special requirements which only the physician can recognize, we believe thorough mastication of food and simple cleansing with soap and water, or water alone, is all that is necessary. However, there is no particular harm in using mild antiseptic solutions for this purpose if desired.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Muscular Rheumatism.

Please suggest the proper treatment for muscular rheumatism which comes in the back of the neck and sticks to beat the duce.

Answer—Massage. Turkish bath. Heat applied to the lame places. A meal a day. A saline cathartic every second morning.

Finger Nails Not Poisonous.

Are finger nails poisonous if chipped?

Answer—No. Scratches from finger nails cause blood poisoning sometimes by reason of the infective material—germs—harbored under the nails.

Household Hints

TASTY SCHOOL SANDWICHES.

Chester Cream Sandwiches—Peel, boil, drain and mash large chestnuts. Rub them through a sieve and mix with sweet cream to every a touch of salt or sugar as is liked, and spread the paste on thin slices of white bread. Put the paste on the lower slice always.

Fig Sandwiches—Soak dried figs over night in cold water to cover them and then simmer over a slow fire until tender. Add half cup sugar to each portion of figs and strain cooking. Shill them thoroughly, then chop to a paste and spread on thin white bread or on thin slices of pound cake.

Marshmallow and Nut Sandwiches—Toast some fresh marshmallows and mix them in a bowl with chopped English walnuts. Cut white bread and put the paste on the lower slice.

Swiss Sandwiches—Get the square cheeses and see that they are perfectly fresh. Mash in a bowl to a paste, add a little sweet cream beaten up first and teaspoon of Worcestershire sauce to every cheese; salt and paprika to taste. Spread on thin fresh graham bread. Chopped olives or shavings of pimento may be added to this filling.

Bacon Sandwiches—Wipes of breakfast bacon, delicately broiled, make the most appetizing of sandwiches, especially if put between toasted slices of graham bread.

Seasoned with paprika on red pepper.

Tomato and Horseradish Sandwiches—Slice a large tomato thin and sprinkle it with salt and pepper. Mix a little bottled horseradish with a tablespoon of olive oil. Spread thin slices of lightly buttered gluten bread with the horseradish mixture and put the tomato slices between.

Mayonnaise Sandwiches—Make mayonnaise, using plenty of red pepper and lemon juice. Spread on a bit of lettuce just between fresh graham bread. Only a little of the mayonnaise must be used, as it is likely to drip when it becomes warm.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

Gift Suggestion—Purchase a small yard of linen huckaback toweling as you wish, to make guest towels. Cut each yard lengthwise into two equal halves and hemstitch the other.

When invited to a "shower" or wish to give a Christmas present you have a nice little gift by embroidering the recipient's initial in the center of one end.

Use the Little Basins that pork and beans are sold in to bake fruit cakes in. They will bake in about twenty minutes and are better than one large one. Saves time and gas.

To clean old wire bed springs use a five-cent dish mop, which reaches all parts.

THE TABLE.

Meat Loaf From Leftovers—Put enough cold cooked meat through meat grinder to make two cups. Mix with one small onion and four crackers ground, one beaten egg, one level teaspoon celery salt, pinch of cayenne pepper, salt and enough gravy or broth to moisten. Line a buttered melon mold with cooked rice, fill with mixture and cover with rice. Steam one and one-half hours. Turn out on chop platter and pour hot tomato sauce around it.

Fruit Cake—One cup sugar creamed with three tablespoons melted butter, one cup buttermilk, two cups flour, one cup raisins, one cup currants. Bake slowly. This is greatly improved by allowing to stand a week or two where it will not dry out.

Almond Cake—One-half cup shortening, one cup sugar, one cup sour milk or cream. Measure before sifting; two cups flour, one teaspoon soda; one-half teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon baking powder, two cups eggs. This formula can be used in various ways. Divided in half with four tablespoons cocoa or chocolate add, with vanilla flavoring. Or makes fine devil's food cake. Or mix nuts or raisins with half and bake in layers. Or mix one generous cup of the latter with cocoa and make a marble cake by dropping a spoonful of white, then small portion of the dark.

Lemon Filling—Beat one egg and mix in three tablespoons cornstarch. If too stiff to be poured into one pint of boiling water, add a small amount of water. Stir constantly while the mixture is on the stove. It will soon thicken. Add to it the juice of one lemon also the grated rind and a scant cup of sugar. Let boil for very short time. It makes a delicious filling for a cake.

OBSERVE HALLOWE'EN
THIS YEAR NOV. 1ST

Celebration Will be Delayed Because October 31st Falls on Sunday—Suggestions for Party.

Halloween or All Hallowe'en is the popular name for October thirty-first, the vigil of the feast of All Saints. In some countries it is treated as a religious celebration, but in the United States and Great Britain the night is devoted to merry-making and divination.

As the thirty-first of October falls on Sunday this year, the celebrations will take place on the following evening, November first.

Little would one think as he was celebrating this last day of October that this day had once been a religious festival. Many, many years ago the ancient Druids celebrated this festival with the grandest of religious decorations, but gradually this custom has changed until now it is a night of fun and frolic for every one.

As we think of it now it is a time for hosts of spirits, witches, goblins, and all sorts of things of superstition. If a person is planning for an entertainment on that evening, he should not do so without first thinking of and planning his decorations, invitations and games to be played during the evening.

For invitations the most freakish kind should be secured, cards with yellow pumpkins, black cats with green eyes, or those button-faced cards with the invitation written backwards to be read in a mirror are suitable. The decorations should be of the most gruesome sort that a person could possibly think up. Pumpkins and skeleton lanterns furnish the proper amount of light that is needed. Any kind of a light that gives a weird and spooky appearance is just the thing for the night. One method to construct a good light is to buy a five-cent fish globe. Hold it over a lighted kerosene lamp and blacken inside. Draw grotesque faces in them by rubbing off the soot. Place it over an electric light bulb and it will give a most weird appearance.

Another good idea is to fix a skeleton of a witch in the hall way and have an electric light bulb in the head to light it up and for her hands fill a pair of kid gloves with some wet sawdust. As your guests come have them shake hands with this witch as they touch the cold hands it will surely make them shiver and run up their backs. Besides all the various stunts that a person can think up there are a lot of old games that can be played. The most popular is the game of pin the tail on the donkey. In a tub such as a bathtub for apples in a tub of water and then catch one.

Another good trick is played in this way. With a broomstick measure the distance from the victim's elbow on the inside of the arm to the tip of his finger, outstretched. Mark the point, tell him close the stick so that the outer edge of the hand touches the point marked, and the stick is held backwards. The hand must be held around the stick, not allowed to slope downward. He must now put the end of the stick into his mouth. Needless to say, not many will accomplish this feat, but it will afford endless amusement to the watchers.

A trick that will bring about a lot of amusement to those looking on and the victim, too, is to take a cane and the other under the hand that is on the cane, taking hold of the ear. When in this position walk in a circle around case powder her nose, look herself over in one of those dinky little mirrors, and go through all the rest of the motions. I could hardly help laughing at it, but the younger wasn't a bit too old for a doll, and there she was, giving herself the airs and graces of a woman of forty. When she became young ladies nowadays, when they get into grammar school?"

I can imagine some reader asking what there is wrong about a girl of ten or twelve discussing styles, or using a vanity box. Nothing wrong, except as all unnatural things are wrong.

An ardent desire to look well, a painstaking attention to her personal appearance is a woman's natural prerogative, but not a child's. And at ten or eleven or even twelve a girl should be a child and not a miniature woman.

When Vanity Gets An Early Start. The vanity that gets such an early start as that is apt to become an overbearing one.

For a girl that is to want to wear dainty clothes and look as pretty as she can, is natural enough, but for her to be so interested in the subtlest styles and carries a vanity box, is absurd.

Any mother who has her daughter's best interests at heart will try to keep her young and unself-conscious as long as possible.

The Twelve-Year-Old and Her Vanity Box.

The Anthonym had a tale to tell me on this subject the other night. "I was waiting for a car," he said, "and a little girl who couldn't possibly be more than twelve was standing alone in the street. All of a sudden what did she do but open her hand-bag, whip out a vanity
